THE coming back of Ed Erickson seems to be complete and permanent. Everything in Erickson's baseball life this summer dates from the fourth of July, which marked the epoch. On that day he pitched twenty-two innings. Yesterday he pitched only nine, but the nine were innings to be proud of.

The Butte hitters connected for only six safeties, all of which were singles. Also they were scattered, the largest number of the six being two in the fourth inning.

Erickson was the recipient of much honorable and invaluable assistance from his teammates. Three of the fastest doubles in baseball history are credited to Salt Lake's infield, while a fourth of the same type was narrowly missed. Schimpf was the prominent figure in those doubles. No second baseman in any man's league is a surer shot on completing a double than Artie. Forked lightning has nothing on that boy when it comes to speed. His work in this respect has stood out clear during the entire season, but his performance yesterday was so noticeably superb that extended mention should be made of it, and would be if Saturday night weren't rush time on a newspaper.

Three Fast Doubles.
The first of the doubles was made in the fifth, when Oriet reached first on a pass. Whaling followed with a slap to Pendleton. Penny pined it to Schimpf and in a jiffy Dreesen had cleared the entire season, but the thing happened to Marshall and Shannon. Davis this time taking the smash off Shannon's bat. In the eighth Turgeon and Clynes were the victims. Pendleton handling Clynes's hopper.

The almost-double came in the ninth. Oriet was on first as a result of a single. Whaling hit to Schimpf, who tagged Oriet on the way down. Ow-high! the fact that Oriet tried to clear the law in order to delay the play, Schimpf had to chase him and he missed getting the ball to first by a whisker.

Salt Lake was there with the stick. Eleven times Mr. Kellogg felt the blow that rang around the world. Those blows rang loudly, too, for the very good reason that one was a four-bagger by Huelman, one a triple by Davis, and three were two-sackers by Pendleton, Erickson and Spencer. The captain's homer was responsible for three runs, in addition to which he cleared in another tally. Davis's triple brought in two.

Hits in Bunches.
Hits in bunches of four in the first and sixth rounds gave the home club three counters in each of those innings. Those six would have been enough to win; but two more were picked in order to stop any argument that might arise as to whether Salt Lake really won the game or not.

There will be a double-header this afternoon. The first will start at 2:30 and Morgan will perform. The Indian twirler, Hungary, will be the presiding genius in the second session.

The time of calling the meeting to order yesterday was set back, or ahead, the viewpoint may be, by a healthy young rainstorm. Shortly after 4 o'clock the rain quit trying to be a regular storm and turned itself into a steady drizzle, which continued throughout the game and may be on duty yet, so far as the people generally know. The wet water put feathers on the ball, but in spite of that, both pitchers showed steadiness in the department of control.

Butte ticked one up in the very first. Demaggio walked and was forced at second when Turgeon hit to Erickson. Turgeon went to third on Clynes's single to right and came home when Duddy hit a hot one to Erickson, who beat it down a little and let Schimpf nail it with a great leap.

Huelman Hits for Homer.

Salt Lake got that one back and two more besides in their half. Dreesen hit it for a base to right center and Spencer followed with a hopper. Murphy struck out and there were therefore two on when Captain Huelman smashed the ball on the muzzel for a chimney sweep's delight. The sparrows on the distant rooftop wondered what had suddenly come among them.

Butte met Salt Lake's lead and took an extra one in the fourth. Clynes went to first on a gift and to second on Duddy's out. Oriet went down and Whaling drew a base on balls. Marshall hit to right for a clean single, Murphy was slow in rounding up the ball and Clynes came home. Whaling tried to third, Shannon's hit brought in Whaling and Marshall touched wood on a wild pitch.

Salt Lake Ties Score.

The Skyscrapers tied 'er up in the fifth. McClain drew a walk. Dreesen fied, and Spencer was soaked in the rain. Murphy went down on an infield play and then it was Huelman's time up again. The captain drove a souser against Kellogg's huge bulk that bounced off the Butte heaver for a slick single, and McClain scored. Spencer tried to make home also, but was misled into believing that the throw would be to first and consequently was nipped at the pail.

Tied scores were not what Salt Lake was fishing for, so they hammered out more credits in the sixth. Pendleton started the going when he drove one square into the third base sack and went to second before the ball could be fielded. He went to third on Schimpf's hunt on which Kellogg threw wobbly, and Artie was safe. Davis's triple, a scouter about knee high, into the southernmost part of right field, cleared the bases and Davis himself nicked the rubber when Erickson slammed the ball to the center field fence.

Bases Again Filled.

McClain struck out. Dreesen hit to left field and Demaggio made a noble stab for it. He got his glove under the ball, but it failed to stick. Dreesen fied out, and Murphy drew a base on balls. The bases were loaded, therefore, when Huelman came up. The captain leaned on his second strike and the ball went singing into center field. Marshall was there to grab it, in spite of its heat, and chances to score were gone.

Salt Lake added their last one in the seventh. Pendleton hit through Oriet's legs and went to second on Erickson's sacrifice. Davis struck out. Huelman walked and stole second. Pendleton and Erickson undertook a double steal. Shannon heaved the ball over Duddy's head and Pendleton came home.

Butte's Hopes Blasted.

Butte got a couple of men on in the ninth, but that's as far as they went. Oriet singled to left and was touched out on the second base line when Schimpf took Whaling's grounder. Whaling went to second when Erickson hit Marshall. Shannon was out on an infield fly, making two out and two on. (x) Indicates spot where

America's Cup Races to Be Sailed in September, 1914

By International News Service.
NEW YORK, July 19.—After a wait of several months the New York Yacht club has at last accepted the Royal Ulster Yacht club challenge on behalf of Sir Thomas Lipton for another race for the America's cup. It will be sailed off Sandy Hook in September of next year.

Formal announcement to this effect was made by Secretary George A. Cormack of the New York Yacht club tonight.

Mr. Cormack stated that the challenge had been formally accepted by the New York Yacht club, but they had been waiting for the Royal Ulster Yacht club tonight to accept their conditions before making the announcement.

The statement is as follows: "Cable received today from the committee of the Royal Ulster Yacht club, saying that the conditions of the race for the America's cup had been signed and that they were forwarded by the Carmania."

The conditions of the match are practically the same as those governing previous matches, with the exception that they are under the present racing rules and rule of measure.

Huelman stood when he caught Kellogg's fly and downed the side. Also it may be repeated that the first game today begins at 2:30 o'clock.

HELENA DROPS ONE MORE TO ELECTRICS

Two Great Falls Regulars Out of Game, but Win Nevertheless.

Special to The Tribune.
GREAT FALLS, July 18.—Although two of the Electric's players were out of the game today, Baughman being badly spiked in a collision with Kelly in the field, and Faye being banished for talking to the umpire, the Vigilantes were not allowed to profit thereby and lost their fourth straight game.

Wrestling Fans Expect to See Best Match in City's History Tomorrow.

As the time draws near for the big title wrestling match between Champion Mike Yokel and Chris Jordan, which takes place at the Majestic saucer track arena tomorrow night, the fans have become alive to the fact that the greatest wrestling treat they have ever had the opportunity of witnessing is in store for them. Accordingly they are showing great enthusiasm.

Both men have trained hard and conscientiously for the match and have shown the fans that they are in the proper condition to participate in an important contest of this kind. Therefore the most stubbornly contested match one could wish for may reasonably be expected.

Yokel is, of course, a great favorite with the local followers of the game and they are looking for him to bring home the long end of the money, but they are also expecting to see him extended to the limit in order to do so. Hereafter it has been a case of how long will the other fellow stay with Yokel. In this match it is: Can this Greek throw Mike?

Wrestle to Finish.

Yokel's friends insist that if he cannot throw the Greek, the Greek cannot throw Mike. But someone must win. They are to wrestle to a finish, best two out of three falls. They cannot wrestle for several hours and then call it a draw. They must keep going until one or the other throws his opponent or one of them falls from mere exhaustion. However, it is not probable that the match will be a long drawn out affair, as Jordan is a man who is always on the offensive, never giving his man a minute's rest, and he is willing to mix matters all the time. Yokel is a great deal on the same order. While he is content to go along and bide his time if his opponent does not show any inclination to mix with him, he has always shown that he was as ready and willing to mix as any of them. Every man who ever came here found to his sorrow that the minute he started to rush things with the local Dutchman that school was about out, for that is the moment Mike is most dangerous and grabs the winning hold.

Jordan Has Advantage.

Jordan will have the better of the argument from one standpoint. He is the challenger, and has everything to win and really nothing to lose. If he wins he will be the undisputed champion and can tour the country, meeting all comers and incidentally making considerable money. On the other hand, in case he loses to Mike, he is still Chris Jordan, the Greek wonder, who has beaten every good man in the country and can still get plenty of matches against men who are coming to the front as contenders for the middleweight title. Should Yokel win it will be a case of still retaining the title and he will be placed in a position something like Frank Gotch, where there will be no

WORLD'S CHAMPION PICKS AMERICANS TO LIFT CUP

Wilding Says Chances of U. S. Team Are Brighter Than Ever; Big Struggle for Davis Trophy Begins Friday.

By ANTHONY F. WILDING.
World's Champion Tennis Player.
IMBLEDON, England, July 19.—In accordance with my forecast as to the semi-final, America has surpassed all her competitors and now stands in the position of challenger against England, the present holder of the international championship and the Dwight F. Davis cup, emblematic of the title.

America's brilliant players double clinched the honor today by beating Canada's best pair in three straight sets, 6-3, 12-10.

Heavy rains greatly softened the ground today in spite of a huge tarpaulin which had been placed over the center court. I consider that this heavy condition of the turf gave the Canadians an improved chance, yet they were clearly outplayed through clever tactics of the brilliant pair from the United States. McLoughlin's hurricane service and smashing volleying were both very conspicuous features of the victors' play.

Equal to Occasion.

By winning out in three straight sets today McLoughlin and Hackett proved themselves equal to the occasion, regardless of all weather conditions. Though I have said it was a great problem as to whether America could wrest the championship from England in the challenge round, next week, I am inclined, after watching today's match, to believe that the prospects of the United States are brighter than ever before. I always conceded America a very excellent chance, I think now that team could win the cup, it experiences a decided reversal of form.

Notwithstanding the unpropitious weather and the prospect of more rain, a splendid attendance was gathered around the center court this afternoon. On the whole this court was a first-class condition for the important match. Lowell and Schwengers, who represented Canada, both played pluckily, despite the fact that it was an uphill struggle most of the way.

Big Struggle Friday.

On the historic Wimbledon courts next Friday will begin the struggle between the Lion and the Eagle for the possession of the most greatly prized trophy of the lawn tennis world—the Davis cup.

To begin with, McLoughlin's service was quite unplayable, which gave the Americans such a very great advantage. The California boy opened with his service and as a result of his smashing overhead play, his side soon had a lead of four games to two. Powell, who played well throughout the match, but the first set went to the Americans in short order soon after.

The next set ended very much in the same fashion as the first. Powell and Schwengers did not seem able to stand up against the forceful tactics of their opponents. In the last set, however, the two Canadians made a very game and sporting effort to save themselves, and some fine rallies resulted. Powell's returns were especially resourceful and clever, but not quite able enough to offset the all-conquering Americans.

McLoughlin's Play Superb.

I have never seen so successfully accomplished such smashing and volleying as resulted from the combined efforts of America's pair. Schwengers, through a double fault, lost his service principally because Powell's overhead lob was not sufficiently crushing. After the United States passed into the lead at five to four, McLoughlin's play became simply superb. His smashing and service both drew round one to dispute his right to wear the crown.

Jordan has finished his training already and will rest from now until the match. Yokel will probably do some light work today, after which he will rest until time to weigh in at 8 o'clock Monday afternoon, when the article of agreement call for the men to weigh not more than 155 pounds. Both men have made the weight without weakening themselves in the least and therefore can have no possible excuse to offer after the match is over.

upon round of enthusiastic applause from the stand. Powell also electrified the crowd on more than one occasion and saved the situation by quick volleying.

Time and time again in this final set Canada's chances for the moment would appear bright, only to be dashed the next instant by some faulty play on the part of Schwengers. It was the errors of Powell's partner that lost the nineteenth game when Hackett was serving. Powell won his last service in fine style, but McLoughlin was simply irresistible in the last game when his turn came. His driving simply swept the court.

America will be represented by Maurice E. McLoughlin and Norris Williams, Harold H. Hackett and Wallace F. Johnson. The English defenders are C. P. Dixon, J. C. Parke, A. W. Gore and H. Roper Barrett.

OGDEN WINS EASILY; HIGHLANDERS WOBBLY

Maloney's Support Off Color; Little Swats Allowed to Count for Singles.

Special to The Tribune.
OGDEN, July 19.—By gathering in four runs in the opening round of today's game, Manager Knight's Kittens put the fear of defeat in the souls of the Missoulians and kept them on the run throughout the proceedings. With nineteen safe blows to their off pitcher, "Mike" Maloney,
